ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

Elio Victores is a Cuban-born figurative painter, born in 1976, whose work sits at the intersection of social commentary, pop sensibility, and technical virtuosity. His large-scale oil paintings deploy the language of fashion, celebrity, and cultural iconography with a Cuban modernist energy — vivid colour, fluid line, and a compositional confidence that commands the viewer's attention immediately. Emerging from the rich tradition of Cuban figurative painting, Victores has developed an internationally recognised practice that speaks with equal fluency to the art world and the broader culture it reflects.

ARTWORK DESCRIPTION

Fashion Icons is a large-scale hyperrealistic oil on canvas rendered in Victores's warm sepia and umber palette — a panoramic group scene that places elegantly dressed figures in a charged social environment. The composition captures the energy of glamorous social life with a photographic intimacy, the faces and figures rendered with the technical precision that defines Victores's practice. The sepia toning gives the work a timeless, cinematic quality — hovering between documentation and myth — while the scale transforms the social moment into something monumental. Victores's sustained engagement with fashion, celebrity, and the performance of identity is at its most direct here.
