ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

Joaquin Avila was born in Guantanamo, Cuba in 1989 and has rapidly established himself as one of the most compelling voices in contemporary Cuban painting. His work gained international attention when a piece donated to the United Nations auction for Scholas — Pope Francis's global education initiative — sold for a considerable sum, leading to a personal audience with His Holiness at the Vatican in March 2019. Avila subsequently painted the largest mural in New York City history, cementing his reputation as an artist of both institutional recognition and popular reach. His figurative paintings draw on Cuban artistic tradition, Baroque portraiture, and African spiritual symbolism to create works of immediate visual power and cultural depth.

ARTWORK DESCRIPTION

Blue Baroque Woman reimagines the Meninas tradition — specifically Velázquez's iconic Infanta Margarita — through Avila's signature monochromatic blue palette and expressionist acrylic technique. The Spanish Baroque source is simultaneously honoured and subverted: the rigid formality of the original court portrait loosened by Avila's gestural handling, the figure's power retained while her chromatic world is entirely remade. The deep blue field charges the composition with a nocturnal intensity that the original's daylight court setting could never achieve, transforming colonial European iconography through a Cuban contemporary lens.

VALUATION

Estimated Gallery Value: $7,500 – $10,000 USD

Insured Value: $16,000 – $20,000 USD

CURATORIAL NOTES

Blue Baroque Woman contributes to a significant Avila grouping within the collection — one of the deepest holdings of this artist's work currently available in a single private collection. The combination of papal recognition, the New York City mural commission, and sustained gallery representation positions Avila as one of the most compelling emerging Cuban artists in the international market.

ADDITIONAL NOTES

Market Context: Avila's recognition by Pope Francis at the Vatican and his New York City mural commission represent institutional validation of exceptional significance for an artist of his generation. Gallery pricing for his unique acrylic works is consistent with this valuation range and reflects sustained demand from collectors of Cuban and Latin American contemporary art. Direct artist provenance with Certificate of Authenticity.
