ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

Karim Ghidinelli was born in Brescia, Italy in 1976 and spent formative years across Guinea Bissau, Ethiopia, and Namibia before completing his art education at Chelsea College of Arts and Design in London. This peripatetic upbringing infuses his practice with a sustained inquiry into identity, passage, and the marks we leave on one another. His signature technique — oil and resin applied to aluminium — produces surfaces of remarkable optical complexity, simultaneously reflective and layered, inviting the viewer to engage physically with the work as light and position shift. Ghidinelli is represented by Abbozzo Gallery (Toronto and Barcelona), Galerie LeRoyer (Montreal), Onessimo Fine Art (Palm Beach), and Conrad West Gallery (Las Vegas), and his work is held in significant private and corporate collections internationally.

ARTWORK DESCRIPTION

Today Is That Season is a 2014 work in which Ghidinelli's fingerprint motif appears against a warm crimson-to-burgundy ground of exceptional chromatic depth — the resin surface giving the background a richness that pure paint on canvas could not achieve. The title's seasonal register suggests cyclical return and renewal, the fingerprint within it carrying both the permanence of biological identity and the transience of a moment. The 48 x 48 inch square format gives the composition a centred, icon-like authority.

VALUATION

Estimated Gallery Value: $16,000 – $22,000 USD

Insured Value: $32,000 – $42,000 USD

CURATORIAL NOTES

Today Is That Season contributes a tightly focused example of Ghidinelli's oil-and-resin practice to the collection. The format and medium are entirely consistent with works actively represented at Onessimo Fine Art, Abbozzo Gallery, and Conrad West Gallery, anchoring the valuation in strong current gallery market evidence.

ADDITIONAL NOTES

Market Context: Ghidinelli's oil and resin on aluminium works are actively listed and sold through Onessimo Fine Art (Palm Beach), Abbozzo Gallery (Toronto/Barcelona), and Conrad West Gallery (Las Vegas) at gallery prices consistent with this valuation range. Direct artist provenance with Certificate of Authenticity.
